

Emmanuele Pavolini

Professore Ordinario di Sociologia Economica. Università degli Studi di Milano.

emmanuele.pavolini@unimi.it

Full Professor in Economic Sociology at the University of Milan (Italy). He focuses his research interests in two fields: welfare state studies in a comparative perspective, with specific attention to the Italian and Southern European welfare states, social policies (i.e. long-term care, family policies, health care), inequalities in the access to welfare state provision, occupational and fiscal welfare, welfare mix and third sector organizations; education and inequalities in education. He was between 2017 and 2024 co-editor of the Journal of European Social Policy. He is currently co-chair of the Italian ESPAnet Board,. He has extensively publish in international journals: Journal of European Social Policy, Social Policy & Administration, Acta Sociologica, Journal of Gerontology, Comparative European Politics, Social Politics, Journal of European Public Policy, Sociology of Health & Illness, Journal of International and Comparative Social Policy.